DCEP Priority 4 – Civics Education in District 24

Discussion:

The Superintendent provided an update on Civics Education as part of District 24's District Comprehensive Education Plan (DCEP), Priority 4, which focuses on preparing students to be college and career ready. Civics Education supports this priority by strengthening student voice and civic engagement through district-aligned initiatives.

Goal and Target:

Under Priority 4, Goal 2, the District aims to increase school participation in civics education initiatives. By June 2026, the percentage of District 24 schools participating in two or more Civics for All components will increase by 25 percentage points, from 47.5% to 72.5%.

The Civics for All components include:

- Civics for All initiatives

- Project Soapbox
- Participatory Budgeting
- Take Action projects

Civics Week:

The Superintendent also noted that District 24 schools participate annually in Civics Week, a citywide initiative focused on promoting civic learning and engagement. Civics Week activities emphasize:

- Youth voice and leadership
- Civic engagement
- Voting awareness, particularly for older students
- Respectful dialogue on community issues

Outcome/Next Steps:

The District will continue to support and expand participation in civics education initiatives in alignment with DCEP goals to promote student engagement, leadership, and readiness for college and careers.

Office of Public Transportation Presentation

Chancellor's Regulation A-801 governs pupil transportation, including eligibility, modes of service, student behavior, safety drills, and OPT oversight. The NYC School Bus Caregiver app can supply families with live location of the buses for each student. We are working on more features such as the arrival time of the bus on the app. Full information is on the website, under OPT Modernization Plan.

LaQuana Chambers answered questions from the CEC members and from the meeting. Parents were upset with the wait time for picking up a child with a disability from home, which is too short of time.
